Montecito

John De Bastiani's Montecito Collection
ethereal outdoor elegance defined by this romantic seaside town.
Montecito, Spanish for "little mountain", is a Santa Barbara enclave nestled between the Santa Ynez Mountains and Pacific Ocean and home to a rich history of architectural landmarks and captivating beauty.

JOHN DE BASTIANI
INTERIORS

John De Bastiani Interiors is a nationally-recognized, full service interior design firm based in Los Angeles and Montecito. Their work has been described as elegant, sophisticated, and understated, with clean lines and a calming color palette, yet extremely livable and comfortable.

John De Bastiani Interiors has completed projects in locations as diverse as Boston, Palm Beach, Miami, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Maine, Vermont, Cape Cod and North Carolina, as well as his home city of Los Angeles. Their designs have been featured in a variety of national publications including Traditional Home, House Beautiful, and Luxe.

The town is known for its arid climate with cool ocean breezes.
The Montecito collection reflects this Mediterranean air with subtle blues, muted greys, and warm terracotta and ivory.

Soft chenilles and classic stripes capture the warmth of the strolling beaches and iconic beach clubs and resorts, while jacquard medallions and diamonds reflect the many legacy estates built in Spanish, Moorish, and Italian styles.

Homes here are built around the rolling landscape; so much so that gardens are often as important as the interiors. Enveloped by old-growth oak trees and lined with giant eucalyptus allées, Montecito recalls the California ranch attitude of healthy and ideal living.

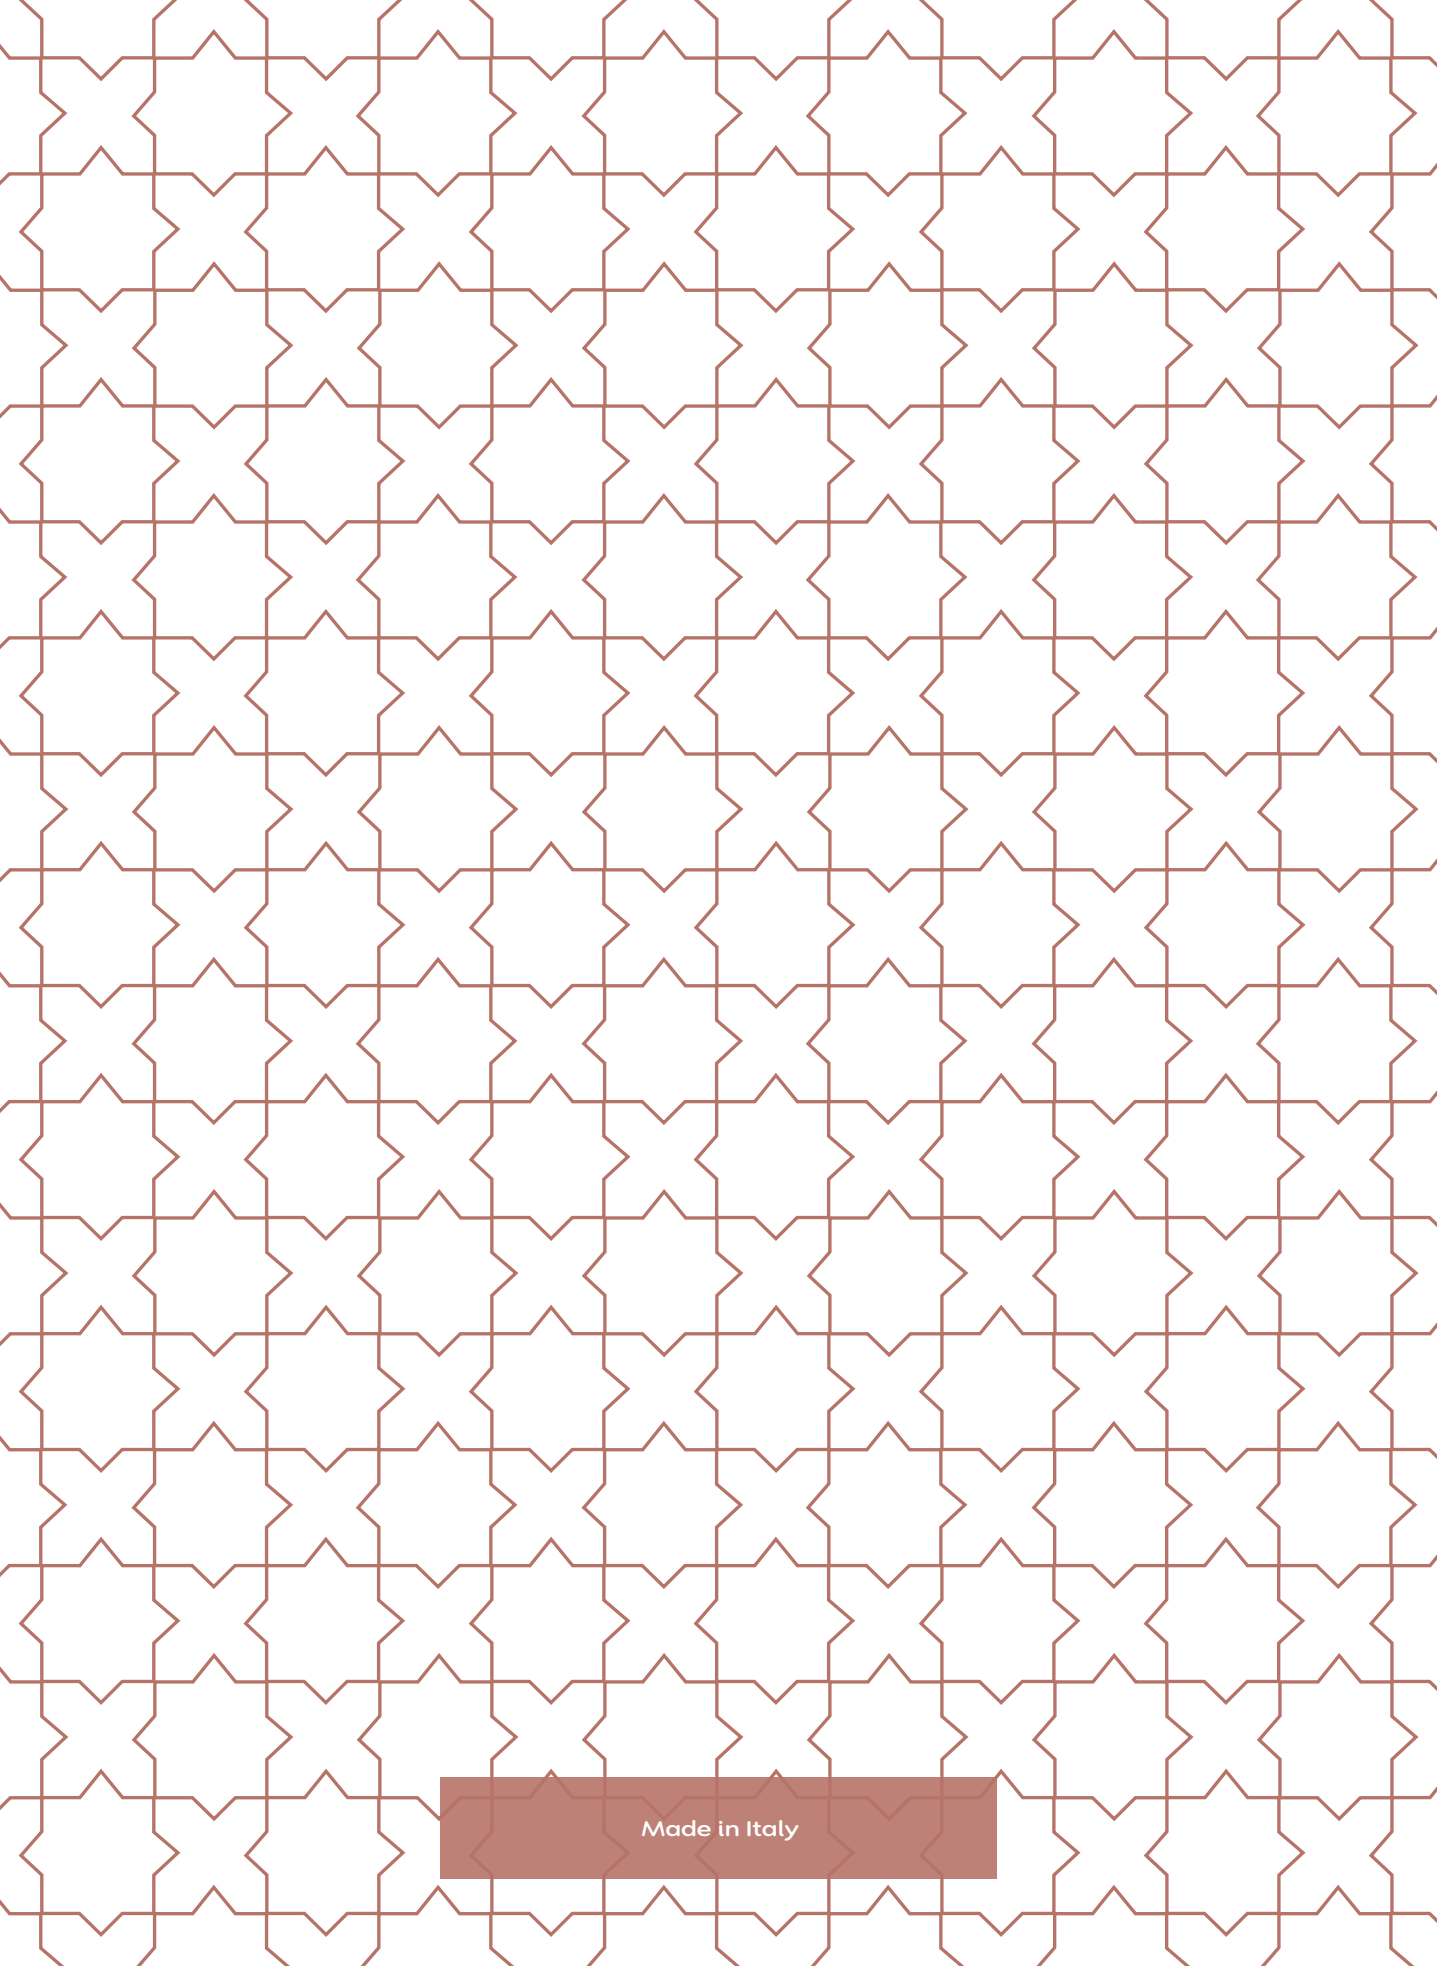

The Montecito collection complements this relaxed and elegant lifestyle by balancing durable fabric with fine Italian craftsmanship and the perfect edit of colors, textures, and patterns.
