The Torino collection was designed by Carola, daughter of master weaver and designer Filippo Uecher. She drew inspiration from an epochal event from 1911: for the very first time in Italy a woman challenged the status-quo by wearing trousers in public, in a time where this garment was still exclusive to men's fashion.

Carola celebrated the significance of her gesture by reinterpreting the most famous patterns and designs of Italian men's fashion through her own creative vision and style. The result is Torino: feminine, essential, tailored.
